The 1950 Cohongoroota

Published by the Cohongoroota Staff
Shepherd College
Shepherdstown, West Virginia

„Close beside Intimate Matters“

Foreward

The attractive name of our yearbook,

“The Cohongoroota”

which means “River of Wild Geese Flying”, is an old Indian name for the Potomac River which borders our campus. The insurmountable heights to which wild geese ascend might well be considered a symbol of the goals toward which we strive.

Because we hope the important, interesting and stimulating days spent at Shepherd will continue to be an inspiration, we present to you the 1950 Cohongoroota.

We Dedicate This Book

We salute a man whose leadership and administrative ability are encouraging to the rapid progress of Shepherd College; a gentleman whose friendly smile and cooperative attitude helps to keep alive the spirit of Shepherd; a personality whose hopes for the future of our school know no bounds.

We dedicate this annual to sincerity, to service, to kindness—to Dr. Oliver S. Ikenberry, our President since 1947.

Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities

For the past thirteen years the publication, "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities", has presented annually an extensive listing of America's outstanding college men and women. Students selected are representative of the outstanding personalities in their respective fields. The qualities required for nomination and final listing are character, scholarship, leadership, extracurricular activities and the possibility of future usefulness to business and society.

Each year at Shepherd the names of a number of the College's most outstanding students are selected by the faculty to be honored by inclusion in this publication.
